

C O N T E N T

Chapter	Title	Page No.
I	An Introduction: The Making of V. S. Naipaul I.1 Purpose and Objective of the Research I.2 Making of a Writer I.3 Literary Creation - Products from cultural Conflicts I.4 Naipaul and Diaspora: An Evaluation I.5 Naipaul and Postcolonial writing: An Evaluation	01-47
II	Historical Review of Travelogues as a Literary Genre II.1 Definition and Motives of Travel Writing II.2 The Development of Travel Writing II.3 Travelogues and Cultural Identity II.4 Travel Narratives of V. S. Naipaul II.5 Naipaul- A Travel Writer with a Difference	48-67
III	Naipaul: An Irritated Traveller III.1 Introduction III.2 Romantic Preconception of India III.3 Indian Perspective in An Area of Darkness III.4 Flight III.5 Naipaul's Sensibility: Triple Identity III.6 Critical Analysis III.7 An Area of Darkness- A Classical Case of Misinterpretation?	68-98
IV	Naipaul's Interrogation and Interpretation of India IV.1 Introduction IV.2 Naipaul's Preconceived Notions of India IV.3 Indian Perspective in India: A Wounded Civilization IV.4 Naipaul's Evaluation of Indian Culture	99-149
V	Naipaul's Celebration of Liberation of Spirit V.1 Introduction V.2 Change of Perception V.3 Indian Perspective in India: A Million Mutinies Now V.4 Resurgent lives of Women V.5 Critical Analysis	150-191
VI	Conclusion	192-200
VII	Select Bibliography	201-211